

MyConsultQ Propels KSB Hospital to “Most Wired” Recognition for Two Years Running

Hospitals & Health Networks magazine study measures the level of IT adoption at hospitals across the country.

Through a unique IS outsourcing agreement with MyConsultQ, Katherine Shaw Bethea Hospital (KSB), Dixon, IL, has for the second consecutive year achieved designation in the Most Wired – Small and Rural category by Hospitals & Health Networks magazine. The industry standard benchmark study, which is developed in cooperation with the American Hospital Association, measures the level of IT adoption in U.S. hospitals based on an analysis of survey responses from healthcare organizations across the country.

The ongoing ability to achieve this recognition illustrates how MyConsultQ, an on demand marketplace that is bringing the gig economy to healthcare consulting, empowered KSB to continually optimize technology and move toward its strategic goals.

MyConsultQ makes it possible to access the specialized experience and knowledge needed to cost effectively manage day-to-day IS operations; fully staff IS departments capable of supporting a wide array of clinical and financial applications; provide help-desk services to front-line technology users; and leverage just-in-time specialized skill sets that are required to reach various goals. Instead of wading through traditional recruiting, training, hiring and retention processes – which are notoriously time and labor intensive – KSB has been able to efficiently and effectively access expert resources at rates that fit within limited healthcare IS budgets.

“By working with MyConsultQ, KSB has not only enabled physicians, nurses, and the entire care team to view and interact with the patient chart from any location, but to also move beyond simply accessing data and toward turning this information into the actionable knowledge that improves clinical care, provides regulatory reporting, and enables comparative performance analysis. Projects such as eICU, charge analysis, outsourced coding, provision of extracts to external benchmarking companies, and integration with a variety of external sources are quickly and easily staffed via the MyConsultQ workforce marketplace,” said Rebecca Quammen, DBA, CEO of MyConsultQ.
